Paul Helmke

THE CITY OF FORT WAYNE

In March of this year, the Fort Wayne City Council, at my request, took steps to implement a local tax reform package which transfers some of the burden of financing local government from property owners to all those who earn an income in Allen County, Indiana. This local tax reform package was and continues to be an important step in providing for the future strength and viability of local government. I fully support and am committed to this tax reform package. It would be a serious mistake for this to be reversed by future councils.

In addition, as local governmental units face the challenges of the 1990's, it is my belief that they should be able to fully use their available resources - subject to existing controls - to meet the increasing demands of their respective publics for governmental services, as well as to repair their deteriorating infrastructures.

While I am hesitant to pay for today's expenses with future tax revenues - and have yet to submit any long-term bonding or borrowing proposals to the City Council - I feel that each taxing unit needs to make such decisions on their own. Our crazy-quilt system of local government does need reform, but this cannot be done by having one governmental unit tell another what to do.

It is not necessary for the Fort Wayne City Council to reject all bonding with future income tax revenues as a policy matter, when Council can just as easily evaluate any future bonding or borrowing requests on a case by case basis. In addition, it is not prudent to call into question or jeopardy the bond ratings of local governmental units by placing some revenue streams outside the possible consideration of those who rate our ability to repay our loans.

Accordingly, I am hereby vetoing City Council Resolution R-48-89 and Ordinance No. G-16-89.
